Rates are Discussed
by Paul Morton

Federal Supervision is a Necessity

SPEAKS AS A RAILWAY MAN

Not as the President's Representative--Favors Legalization of Pools--What Mr. Morton Has to Say.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The railroad rate question is the subject of an article by Paul Morton, secretary of the navy, and formerly vice president of a western railway. The article appears in the Outlook. Mr. Morton expressly disclaims writing as a representative of President Roosevelt's administration, and says he speaks merely as one with somewhat extensive experience pertinent to an important subject. The secretary in the article says there are very few complaints against railroad rates per se in the United States, the chief trouble being "with the relation of rates as between markets." He says there are as many rates that are too low as there are rates which a court would decide to be too high, and that either class of rates may be equally disastrous to communities. He expresses the opinion that federal supervision of railroads is necessary, but adds that regulation and protection should go together.

As to pending legislation, Mr. Morton favors the continuance of the interstate commerce commission in substantially its present form, saying: "Let it go on making investigations and findings. If it finds a rate is unreasonable (either too high or too low, everything else being considered) let it order such rates as it deems reasonable, and if the railroads do not make them effective in 30 days, then the entire matter to be referred to a central court of transportation to say three or five members to be created to especially consider and expedite all questions of interstate commerce so far as the transportation of the country is concerned. I would urge severe punishments for railroads or steamboat lines engaged in interstate commerce which by any device paid rebates, commissions, or in any way afforded preferential rates, and the punishment should be as severe to shippers or commission agents seeking, or receiving them. I would permit the railroads to divide their earnings or tonnage among themselves, filling all such agreements with the interstate commerce commission for its information, and I would make these contracts enforceable as between the railroads. I would favor the declaration that all transportation by rail was hereafter to be considered interstate commerce and subject only to federal supervision, thereby relieving the states of this prerogative and establishing one central regulation, the federal power."

SWAYNE CASE

Discussed in the House—Dramatic Incident Occurred During the Discussion in House.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The house of representatives devoted the session to a discussion of the impeachment charges against Judge Charles Swayne of the northern district of Florida. A dramatic incident occurred when Mr. Littlefield of Maine called on Mr. Lamar of Florida, who filed the charges against the judge, to admit or repudiate an alleged interview which the former claimed tended to incite the people to commit an act of violence against Judge Swayne. Mr. Lamar admitted giving an interview, but emphatically denied any suggestion from same that could be construed into advising assassination or murder. He said that although Judge Swayne was known to be the most lawless man in Florida, he had remained secure from bodily harm.

IMMIGRATION

Record Broken at Ellis Island—Official Figures For the Past Month Given.

New York, Jan. 13.—The official records at Ellis Island show that for the first month of the new year immigration to this country is likely to exceed all records. From the 1st to the 10th of January the arrivals number over 14,000. For the whole month of January, 1904, the arrivals were only 13,000. Deportations for the same period are also record-breaking. For the first 10 days of the new year 478 persons have been deported, against 70 for the same period of time in 1904. Of the arrivals during this 10-day period 9,195 were Hebrews. Of the deportations 65 per cent were Hebrews. The arrival of the Russian and Hungarian Hebrews in such large numbers is largely due to aversion to serving in the army in Russia.

Several trains were held up until midnight pending the clearing of the wreckage. Both firemen were killed and both engineers were fatally hurt.

WARNS POWERS

Czar Alleges Violation of Chinese Neutrality

HE CLAIMS RIGHT TO ACTION

General Oyama's Army Heavily Reinforced in Men and Guns--The Day's War News.

Fusan, Jan. 13.—A small party of Russian cavalry near Haicheng attempted to cut the railway, but were driven back by the Japanese guard. No details have yet been received. It is the first time that the Russians have attempted to use cavalry along the line of communications.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 13.—The Russian government has issued a circular to the powers calling their attention to alleged violation of Chinese neutrality and citing numerous instances during the war in the far east tending to prove that China is unable to fulfill her obligations. This state of affairs, the circular says, is calculated to bring the country in perilous paths, and it concludes by saying that Russia claims the right to act in her own interests.

The government is about to make the irrevocable decision that prestige abroad and the situation at home require a continuation of the war till peace with dignity is possible. Beyond this point, however, confusion exists, especially regarding the immediate development of the interior situation. Emperor Nicholas is still apparently vacillating as to whether he shall allow M. Witte full sway, in the meantime declining to permit Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky to retire. The latter persists in the view that the confidence of the people in the manner in which the reform manifesto is to be worked out is vital, and that this is impossible if the work is to be left completely in the hands of the bureaucrats.

The lack of cohesion and alignment of the forces opposed to the existing state of things, and mutual distrust of each other's program, seems to make anything approaching actual revolution at the present time unworthy of serious consideration. Socialists, revolutionists and other extreme elements as well as the subject elements on the borders of Russia all have different objectives, with which the conservative Liberals, whom the government really hopes to appease, have little in common; and above all Russia's unnumbered millions of peasants, although they have manifested an abhorrence of war, principally for economic reasons and because it takes their loved ones away, have given almost no evidence of having been stirred by the prevailing conditions. Demonstrations on a large scale in the centers of population are regarded by the authorities as possible, accompanied by a recurrence of terrorism by those who believe the bomb is the only weapon with which they can fight absolutism. This last is really considered the likeliest and most deplorable possibility in the near future.

WAR PRISONERS

Arrive at Nagasaki—Lodge For Gen. Stoessel—He Will Sail Jan. 16.

Nagasaki, Jan. 13.—The steamers Kaga and Sumaki have arrived with 1,600 Russian prisoners of war and 50 officers. All the prisoners have been quartered at Inasa, a village near by, where there has been prepared a lodge for General Stoessel, who will arrive Saturday. The Russian officers were allowed much liberty within the bounds of the town, but they are under police escort. General Stoessel and staff will sail from Nagasaki for Europe on a French mail steamer on Jan. 16.

War Office Explains.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 13.—The war office explains that the reason for General Stoessel giving parole and returning to Russia instead of remaining at the head of the large troops who formed the garrison of Port Arthur and sharing their fate as a prisoner of war in Japan is that it is incumbent upon him to bring a detailed report of the defense of the fortress to the emperor. Rear Admiral Dobson, who is senior naval officer, will bring the naval report.

Japan's Big Army.

Makino, Jan. 13.—The Japanese army, facing General Kuropatkin's forces, has been ordered to take severe and prompt action in the immediate vicinity of Port Arthur and also to prevent any further advance of the Russian forces.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Political Conditions in Idaho.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Nearly the entire day in the Senate investigation was devoted to testimony relating to political conditions in Idaho. Frank Martin and F. H. Holzner, prominent Idaho Democrats, testified that a majority of the Democrats of the state opposed "an unnecessary attack" on the Mormon church, which, they said, was the effect of the anti-polygamy plank of the party's state platform. James H. Brady, chairman of the Republican state committee, told of taking advantage of the Democratic charges, in order to get votes for the Republican ticket. He charged also that the Democrats traded off Judge Parker, the Democratic candidate for president, for votes for former Senator Heitfeld, the Democratic candidate for governor.

To Revise Report.

Washington, Jan. 13.—An important order was issued by President Roosevelt, convoking a board, including Secretary Taft as president and seven members of the general staff, to revise the report of the Endicott harbor defense board, appointed in 1885. Ship Subsidy Bill.

Washington, Jan. 13.—In the senate Mr. Callinger from the committee on commerce reported back the merchant marine commission's ship subsidy bill, and said the committee would file the report of the commission as its own. A minority report will be made by Senator Mallory in the form of the minority report of the committee, which, it is said, will be signed by all of the Democratic members of the committee except Senator Martin, who was a member of the commission. In the discussions of the committee Senator Martin said he was not ready to subscribe absolutely to the views of the majority, nor did he want to commit himself to the minority report. It is understood that no Republican senator took so positive a stand against reporting the bill as would cause him to support the minority views.

NEWS OF OHIO

Sensational Petition is Filed at Cleveland

FOURTEEN MEN INVOLVED

Dispatches from All Parts of the State and News of Nearby Towns.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 13.—The charge is specifically made in an answer and cross-petition filed today in common pleas court by Attorney T. H. Johnson of Cleveland, that fourteen men who promoted the Miami and Erie Canal Transportation company entered into a conspiracy to cheat and defraud all those who subsequently subscribed for stock of the corporation or who purchased bonds issued by the company. Acting on the scheme he alleges that these men delivered to themselves stock on the face value of $2,990,000 bonds for $115,000, and that they realized more than $110,000 in cash from the deals and transfers early in the history of this celebrated corporation. He alleges that fourteen men are solvent and they are liable for the full amount of the stock they transferred to themselves. He asks that judgment for $2,990,000 be found against them and that they be required to pay the amount so that the indebtedness of the company can be wiped out. Johnson says that the men who originated the proposition were Wm. H. Lamprecht, M. J. Mandelbaum, E. G. Tilston, R. E. Bamsfield, Geo. N. Chandler, E. W. Moore, H. A. Everett, F. T. Pomeroy, R. A. IN RUSSIA

A Reign of Terror May be at Hand

Assassinations are Quite Common in Empire

REVERSE TO CZAR'S ARMS

May Be Spark That Will Explode the Magazine of Pent Up Feeling--A General's Cruelty.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 13.—Many indications are at hand today that a revolutionary reign of terror, so long expected and anticipated with the deepest fear and trepidation, is commencing. Since the fall of Port Arthur the feeling of unrest and dissatisfaction with the bureaucratic form of government has been more pronounced and it is possible that this reverse to the Russian arms may prove the spark which will explode the magazine of pent up feelings in peasant circles. There are many other reasons for dissatisfaction, including the reforms which will give the people greater freedom. From all parts of the empire today come reports of political assassinations, including the taking of lives of police, detectives, tax collectors and other minor officials. Especially in central and southern provinces is this anti-official feeling manifest. In these provinces 56 political assassinations have been reported within the past fortnight. The result of this uprising, it is felt in many quarters, must be the ending of the far Eastern war. The authorities have become active in preventing meetings at which liberal views regarding the government are expressed. News of the almost unprecedented cruelty of a Russian general has reached unofficial circles here. While a review of troops was on at Fiedsia, onlookers crowded in, hampering the drill. General Tschetirkin reviewing the troops became enraged at the interference and rode into a group of children, slashing at them with his sword. Four children were killed and ten were injured. The general forced the troops to disperse the crowd with their bayonets.

DREW A GUN

But Didn't Use It as the Fellow Skipped Out and Boarded a Trolley Car.

An excited man boarded a trolley car headed for Newark. Thursday evening, and remarked to one of the passengers that he had an exciting time in the office of Kiersville. He volunteered the information that he had been stopping at the hotel in that town and had been making love to a good looking woman who happened to be in the hotel at the time. He says that at an interesting stage a man, claiming to be the woman's husband, appeared on the scene and drew a gun threatening to use it with effect unless he managed to get away.

No name was given and an effort to ascertain the truth of the report was made. In reply to an inquiry from the office the Kiersville correspondent says that if there was any trouble there Thursday evening nobody in town seems to know anything about it.

OVAMA REPORTS
FIGHT WITH RUSSIANS

Tokyo, Jan. 13.—Field Marshal Oyama reports from Liao Yang today that Wednesday a Japanese cavalry detachment encountered four companies of Russian cavalry west of Tangbas and fiercely engaged them. In the afternoon the Russians were repulsed with heavy losses. Subsequently they were reinforced by several companies of cavalry and eight guns. The Japanese drew the Russians to Liaochiao and engaged and pursued them. Wednesday night a small body of Russian cavalry reached the railroad line and tore up the tracks between Anshantien and Haicheng and Tatchekiao and Yinkow. They were immediately repaired. Wednesday afternoon 2,000 Russian cavalry, with guns, attacked New Chiang. The Japanese were forced to retire temporarily but were re-inforced and attacked the Russians and are pursuing them. The Russians also attacked Nuchiatum but were repulsed.

Delaware's Legislature still remains deadlocked. It has been unable to effect an organization since the regular session began, and consequently no legislation has been undertaken. ## The Standpatters' Mistake.

(Pittsburg Post.)

As was to have been expected the standpatters in Congress do not take kindly to the President's idea of having an extra session of Congress in the fall to deal with the matter of revising the tariff. The principal opposition to this program comes from several of the chief Republican leaders in the House of Representatives, and it is said they will feel disposed to make a strong fight against any important changes in the schedule of tariff rates. Some of the House leaders and several influential Republican senators take a different view of the matter, and are favorable to revision and an extra session. The soundness of these men on the general question of protection cannot be doubted when it is considered who they are. Among them are said to be Senators Aldrich and Allison and Representatives Payne and Tawney. These men cannot be accused of any leaning toward free trade and the fact that they favor revision shows they are fully alive to the eventual danger to the cause of protection if some general reduction of the tariff is not speedily undertaken.

The weakness of the standpatters, if it comes to a fight, will be in the fact that the rank and file of the Republican party, as well as many of its leaders, are coming to appreciate the necessity for a reduction of the existing tariff upon many articles. They know that this reduction can be effected without in any way impairing the principle of protection, and they understand that unless it is made that principle will be greatly weakened. Until the standpat idea was evolved in recent years it was always the contention of the leading American protectionists from Clay to Garfield and Harrison that duties should only be imposed high enough to protect our own manufactures from undue foreign competition, and that rates should be reduced whenever this could be done without affecting this principle.

But the standpatters' idea is that rates must remain practically unchanged, no matter whether they are too high or not. This results in permitting our manufacturers to make our people pay unduly high prices for their products by shutting out foreign goods entirely. It is to the interest of the people, even from the old protectionist view, that duties should not be so high as to preclude foreign competition when unduly high prices for our own goods are asked. But the standpatters believe that our manufacturers ought to be given a free hand to get all they can, and therefore they insist upon keeping tariff rates away above what they should be. The rank and file of the Republican party, who in common with the rest of the citizens of the country have to pay the tariff, are beginning to discover that this sort of thing is becoming most unduly expensive, and they are rapidly joining the ranks of the tariff revisionists. Should the standpatters in Congress make a fight against the President upon this subject they will probably discover before they get through that they have gravely mistaken popular feeling, not only generally, but in their own party.

The Exploration of Herculaneum.

New York World.)

If Newport were suddenly buried eighty feet deep in mud and were excavated 2,000 years hence, what a find it would be for the antiquarians! The city of Herculaneum, where the millionaires of Rome had their country palaces, was buried in mud by the eruption of Vesuvius in the year 79 A. D. and now it is to be dug up and its treasures of art and the libraries of its rich are to be recovered for the use of the whole world.

One of its palaces has been explored already, and what it yielded, which may now be seen in the museums and libraries of Italy, is of such enormous artistic and literary value that the whole world of learning is eagerly looking forward to the completion of the work. The Kings of Italy and England, the German Emperor, the Presidents of the United States and of France, are giving the work their active support. Prof. Waldstein, of Cambridge University, is here now trying to induce the rich men of this country to join those of Europe in raising the enormous sum of money that is necessary for the excavation.

Those who are giving of time and money do so from no hope of pecuniary benefit, for none is possible; they are actuated solely by desire to restore to the world some of its buried treasures of art and literature. In the ruins of Herculaneum are manuscripts that may contain the long-lost writings of Sappho, Menander, Aeschylus, and documents perhaps that will throw a light upon the first days of Christianity.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best Made.

"In my opinion Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best made for colds," says Mrs. Cora Walker, of Porterville, California. There is no doubt about its being the best. No other is so sure a preventive of pneumonia. No other is so pleasant and safe to take. These are good reasons why it should be preferred to any other. The fact is that few people are satisfied with any other after having once used this remedy. For sale by all druggists.

MISS EVA FRANCIS

NEWARK GIRL SCORES SUCCESS IN "WHO GOES THERE?"

Story is Here Told How Miss Francis Happened to Start on a Stage Career.

The "Who Goes There" company appeared at Fostoria, Ohio, Thursday night with Miss Eva Francis of Newark in the role of Gertrude Stewart, and Miss Francis repeated the success she scored in her initial appearance at Sandusky the previous night.

Manager Childs says he has made a "find" in Miss Francis and the Newark girl's success seems assured. Miss Francis is talented and pretty. Several weeks ago when Mr. Riley was here making arrangements to bring the "Who Goes There" company to Newark he told the Auditorium managers that some changes would soon be made in the personnel of the company and asked them if they knew of any likely candidates for the stage. Miss Francis was immediately thought of. While Miss Francis had had no experience, save in amateur theatricals, her name was suggested to Mr. Riley who later met the Newark girl and was favorably impressed with her appearance and manner. Mr. Riley wrote the home office and when the company reached Newark on the 6th inst., Miss Francis, Mrs. Walter Snodgrass and others met Manager Childs and Mrs. Claxton Wistach (Miss Allen) at the Elks club room. Mr. Childs was pleased with Miss Francis and at once proposed a rehearsal at the Auditorium. This proved satisfactory and Mr. Childs agreed to take her along with the company and give her an opportunity before the footlights. After three rehearsals she appeared for the first time in Sandusky Wednesday night, her mother, Mrs. Milo Francis, and sister, Mrs. Robert White, going up from Newark to witness her debut. The Sandusky papers of Thursday spoke in highly favorable terms of Miss Francis and the audience at Fostoria Thursday night was as well pleased with the Newark girl as was that in the city by the lake the previous evening.

Miss Francis attended school in Newark and at St. Mary's. She has a musical education too, and this combined with a beautiful voice will doubtless prove of great value to her in her stage career.

The Auditorium managers say that the "Who Goes There" company may play a return date later in the season. The comedy made a hit a few nights ago in Newark and now that a popular Newark girl is a member of the cast there is no doubt that its reproduction here would be greeted by a large audience.

"My Wife's Family"

Auditorium To night.

"My Wife's Family," a musical comedy in three acts, which will be seen at the Auditorium tonight, is a conglomeration of pretty girls, gorgeous costumes, tuneful and catchy music, together with clever and funny comedy.

ANITA LAURENCE, IN "MY WIFE'S FAMILY."

editions, and amusing situations and complications. The cast contains some well-known players and is headed by the clever comedians, Hal Stephens and Harry Linton.

NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT.
When Dan Sully first produced "The Parish Priest," he met with much opposition from people of religious tendencies, who were opposed to putting a priest on the stage; he had a hard time convincing the public that the play was meritorious, but in the end he succeeded and "The Parish Priest" became the greatest of his triumphs. So thoroughly did he become identified with this play that it is doubtful if he will ever be accepted in anything but a clerical role; for three years he has been seeking a suitable play, and he has finally found it in "Our Pastor," a romantic comedy drama in three acts, by Jerrold Sheppard. It is a story of Idaho, in which Mr. Sully appears as the pastor of a little church in one of the mushroom towns of the West; the play is intensely dramatic with an undercurrent of rich Celtic humor, and is pronounced by press and public to be the best thing Sully has ever produced. "Our Pastor" will be the attraction at the Auditorium, January 17, next Tuesday.

"A MESSAGE FROM MARS."
Charles Hawtrey, the most accomplished and successful comedians that England has sent us in many years, will be seen at the Auditorium soon, in that extraordinarily popular comedy, "A Message From Mars." No play of recent years has met with such great and long continued favor in London and New York. It has been acted by Mr. Hawtrey over 1200 times. It has a number of original situations and ideas, and the introduction of a messenger from Mars into everyday life is said to be not only startling but impressive and amusing. Mr. Hawtrey brings his London company, and a complete scenic production, which contains many mechanical novelties and some surprising illusions.

"MISS BOB WHITE."
"Miss Bob White," a comedy opera by William Spencer, whose "Little Tycoon" and "Princess Bonnie" are still whistled and hummed in every household, has in his third opera sponsored himself and Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman, the famous managers who will present the Spencer opera in this city in a few weeks, have given that work the most complete, lavishly accented and surreptitious mounting ever accorded a Spencer opera. It is complete, delightful and picturesque, but not overdone nor overdone, and the lavish expenditures have been for the benefit and not for itself, which together with the meritorious book and melodious music, are a guarantee that it will be a triumph. ## GAS AND OIL

MANY WELLS WILL BE DRILLED THIS YEAR.

Three Different Companies Have Drilled Wells in New Oil Field and Prospect is Good.

Representatives of a half dozen or more oil companies, including the Standard, are now engaged in leasing land in eastern Knox county, and as much as $5.50 per acre is being paid. In many instances owners of large tracts that are considered especially desirable are receiving handsome sums of money in addition to the rental price appearing in the agreement.

The situation is unique. Three different companies have drilled wells in as many different localities, but all in a direct line. In each of these wells, all of which are deep, splendid results have been obtained, and oil men are now figuring out the location of what they believe to be one of the largest and best pools of oil in the country.

Oil and gas men rarely guess when locating a well, except when the whole territory is undeveloped. As soon as a well is drilled in the agents of the various companies secure sand that is brought up from the bottom and examine it carefully. This is compared with "drillings" from other wells and then the figuring begins in order to determine the "dips" or "waves" of the oil or gas producing sand.

Now that the Tisserand well, located near Greenville, is known to be a good oil producer and since the big well on the McKee farm, not far from Diadensburg, has been drilled in, the oil men are consulting their maps of the field daily and trying to figure out the "most likely" spots. One Mr. Vernon man who is greatly interested in the field states that not less than twenty-five wells will be drilled in the field during the coming summer, says the Mt. Vernon Republican-News.

The boiler at the Lupper rig on the Joseph Lohr lease south of Brandon exploded Saturday evening. No person was hurt. The boiler had been patched and was known to be in bad shape.

The Logan company made an offer to G. W. Garrison of the same price for the gas from his well that they pay to A. J. Wilson & Co. in the winter and 2 cents in summer—but the deal has not been closed up. Mr. Garrison is said to agree to that price with a condition that the gas must go into the Logan line against a pressure of 200 old pounds which would greatly exceed the normal output of the well.

The property of the Johnstown Oil and Gas company is to be sold by the receiver at the court house in Mt. Vernon at two o'clock on January 27. It consists of a 7-acre lease by Thompson, a 10-acre lease by P. M. G. Carr, a 5-acre lease by A. J. Wilson & Co., a 5-acre lease of Dunham, a producing well on the first lease, and all other fixtures and attachments. The property is to be sold for cash.

UNIFORM CHARGES

FOR MEDICAL SERVICES WILL BE MADE IN LICKING COUNTY.

Schedule of Charges Not Yet Ready For the Public—Over 100 Doctors in the County.

The Licking County Medical Society will in a few days have its schedule of charges for medical services ready for the public.

Dr. C. P. King is securing applications very fast for membership and as soon as 75 per cent of the physicians of Licking county have signed the roll, the schedule will be put into force.

There are more than one hundred practicing physicians in this county and it is the desire of the society to have every one on their rolls before the actual work of this organization begins.

It is the opinion of Newark physicians that the new method will be the best move that this organization has accomplished and thus far all doctors are anxious to see the uniform system of charges put into strict force.

MAN CUTS OFF HIS OWN NOSE

The man who cuts his own nose off to spite his face is a wise man compared with him who neglects life insurance on account of some prejudice or superstition, or for that other reason so often assigned: "Can make better use of my money." It has been figured out that if the 1904 crops were equally divided every man, woman and child in the United States would receive 1 barrel of flour, 100 eggs, 140 quarts of milk, 1 bushel of apples and 2 1-2 bushels of other fruits and berries, 3 bushels of potatoes and 2 bushels of carrots, beets, parsnips, and turnips, 11 heads of cabbage, 28 bushels of corn, 70 pounds of cotton, 6 pounds of wool for clothes and enough leather for two pairs of shoes.

Official statistics show that the area under crops in Great Britain showed a decrease of 25,969 acres last year on the figures of 1903, the acreage under wheat being 1,375,284, which is the smallest area ever recorded.

APPLETON FIRE

ELDER GROCERY AND RESIDENCE DESTROYED.

Nothing Saved Except a Little of the Kitchen Furniture—Loss About $2000.

The building owned by J. O. Montgomery at Appleton, and occupied as a dwelling and grocery, by John S. Elder, was destroyed by fire Thursday morning, entailing a loss of about $2000, which was partly protected by insurance. Mr. Elder saved part of the kitchen furniture, but everything else went up in smoke. The building was a two-story frame structure. The house was on fire the previous afternoon and it is now supposed that fire still smoldered between the roof and ceiling when the family retired.

About 2:30 in the morning the family was awakened and had barely time to get out of the house. The village being without a fire department, it was but a short time before the building and waterroom were a mass of ruins.

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old. In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible, one's youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair. The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.

Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure. Accept no substitute—there is none. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

SPOONS STOLEN

AND OTHER ARTICLES TAKEN BY A KLEPTOMANIC.

At Various Receptions Held in Newark—Many Things Reported Missing.

Newark society seems to be infested with one or more so-called kleptomaniacs.

During the past winter months there have been a great many receptions and parties in the society circles and in a great many instances, the report comes in that something was missing from the house or hall where these social functions were given.

At first it seemed as though the articles stolen were taken by mistake, but as the winter advances, and more of this work comes to light.

In some cases the missing articles are spoons or forks, cut glass and then again it is wearing apparel, hat pins, overcoats, mufflers, men's hats and many other articles, which one would think were of no value to anyone save to the owner.

Just recently a reception was given and was largely attended and after the affair was over there were three pairs of overcoats missing and in two of the three instances, old ones were left in the place of new ones.

While this may have been due to mistakes yet there are many reasons to show that it could not have been so.

Similar cases have recently been reported from the public school houses and the lockers at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium have also been visited by people who had no business there.

A BAD DISORDER

In the fall of 1895 I contracted that fearful disease, Blood Poison. It gained such headway that I was forced to resign my position and seek relief at Hot Springs. After spending all the means I had I went to Memphis. In less than three weeks I was in a hospital, and after nine weeks of suffering I was discharged as cured. In less than a month every bone in my body seemed to be affected and felt as if they would break at the least exertion. Again I was compelled to resign, and I returned to the hospital for a seven weeks stay. When I came out I was advised to try farming. When I first went on the farm I prevailed on the only firm who handled drugs to get me one dozen bottles of S. S. S. At the time both of my hands were broken out with blisters and I was covered with boils and sores. In the meantime my druggist had gotten two dozen bottles of S. S. S. for me and I began its use, and after taking the thirteenth bottle not a sore or boil was visible. R. R. POWELL, East 9th St., Little Rock, Ark.

Of all human diseases, Contagious Blood Poison is the most hideous and hateful. The victim is tortured with eating ulcers, sores and abscesses, unsightly blotches, eruptions and other symptoms of the miserable disease. S. S. S. has been used successfully for nearly fifty years for Contagious Blood Poison. It contains no mercury, arsenic or other mineral. Our home treatment book gives all the symptoms of this disease. ## PROMINENT CONTRACTOR DIED AT NOON, FRIDAY.

For Nearly Seventy Years Mr. Ferguson Lived in Newark—Funeral Not Arranged.

Mr. Levi Ferguson, for many years one of the most prominent business men of Newark, being engaged in the contracting business with his son, Mr. W. P. Ferguson, under the firm name of Ferguson & Son, died at his home on West Main street, a few minutes before 12 o'clock noon, on Friday.

The deceased had been suffering with abscess of the lungs, superinduced by an attack of pneumonia last spring.

Mr. Ferguson was a son of Sinaadack Ferguson, an old time contractor of this city, who died many years ago. He was born in Chillicothe on March 22, 1841, and was consequently in the seventy-first year of his age. He has lived in Newark practically his entire life, coming here when only four years old. On September 22, 1857, he was married to Miss Mary A. Poundstone, daughter of the late Jacob K. and Rhoda Poundstone. From this union three children were born, being Walter P., Mrs. E. E. Stimmel, and Mrs. Zoe Sturdevant, all of whom are living and reside in this city. Mrs. Ferguson died about five years ago. At this time no arrangements have been made for the funeral.

A Young Mother Died at City Hospital Friday Morning, Leaving Baby Four Weeks Old.

Mrs. Ernest Beeney died at 9 o'clock Friday morning, at the city hospital, after a few weeks' illness, at the age of 23 years, leaving a little baby, four weeks old.

Mrs. Beeney, formerly Miss Alice Priest, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Priest, who live near Reform, in the eastern part of Licking county, and for several years she lived in Newark. Last winter her marriage to Mr. Beeney, a young carpenter, took place and for some time Mr. and Mrs. Beeney have lived just north of Newark, on the Mt. Vernon road.

The deceased had many friends in Newark and throughout the county. The funeral has not as yet been arranged.

SALTING STATION

For Pickle House Talked of at Kirkersville—No Steps Yet Taken.

A man who was in Kirkersville Thursday reports that there is talk of establishing a salting station for the Heinz pickle factory and that it is the intention of making use of the old pigeon swamp, which is said to be admirably adapted to the growth of cucumber pickles. The names of two prominent Columbus men were mentioned in this connection.

The Advocate wired its Kirkersville correspondent Friday morning, and learned that while there has been some indefinite talk along this line nothing has been accomplished. At present the salting station seems to be in the far distant future.

IN THE PIT

Stayed Brave Tender as Freight Dashed Toward Him and He Prevented a Wreck.

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 13.—As the result of bravery of exceptional merit, John Ellis, turntable tender in the C. and O. yards here, has been given a lifetime position with the C. and O. and a lifetime pass over the entire system, including even the steamers used by the company. The westbound freight was just pulling into the upper end of the yards when something went wrong with the internal mechanism of the ponderous engine. The engineer got out, and was looking the big machine over carefully when she suddenly leaped forward, and leaving her master behind, dashed down the line with no one in the cab save the fireman, whose knowledge of engineering had not yet reached the point where he could quickly control the machine.

The switch to the table had been left open, and down in the pit at his post of duty, stood John Ellis. The freight dashed straight toward the pit and the table was out of position to catch it.

Ellis saw the danger and knew that the once chance to save her and perhaps the life of the fireman inside and his own as well as to stay there and do what he could to get the table track on line, with that on which the freight was running.

Slowly the big table swung around into place just as the big engine dashed up and over the division onto the other side and stopped safe. Had Ellis deserted his post a disastrous wreck would have resulted.

HALF SICK PEOPLE

Just sick enough to feel heavy-headed, lazy and listless; to have no appetite, to sleep badly, to toss and turn about, sometimes until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning from one side to the other; restless and nervous, and to have what you eat feel like lead in your stomach; not sick enough to take to bed or call a doctor, but just sick enough to not know what to do.

Ninety-nine times out of one hundred these symptoms are all caused by the stomach, bowels, liver and digestive organs. ## FIGHT ON HAND

Between the President and Party Leaders on Both Tariff Revision and Railroad Rates.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The same reception seems to await the President's plan for an extra session for railroad rate legislation in the Senate that has met his plans for an extra session for tariff revision in the House.

Senator Elkins declared himself strongly opposed to the former proposition and the indications are that he and other senators with similar views will proceed to organize the Senate against railroad legislation at this session or at an extra session next fall.

Senator Elkins said he did not want an extra session and did not believe the majority of the Senate favored one for either tariff revision or railroad rate legislation.

The latter subject was too important and intricate to be dealt with hastily. No bill dealing with it could be put through the Senate at this session. As far as he was willing to go in that direction was the authorization of a joint congressional commission, similar to the merchant marine commission, which would take up the whole subject of the regulation of railroad rates and the abolition of rebates during the coming congressional recess and make a report to the regular session of the new Congress next winter.

This is the plan for dealing with the question that he favored and he was confident it was all that could be done at his session.

It can be said on the best authority that this will not meet the President's views as he expressed them in the last couple of days. The President is determined that there shall be legislation of some sort before the 4th of March dealing with the question of rebates and regulating rates. If his efforts to secure this legislation this winter fails, he has declared his purpose to call an extra session of the new Congress in the fall.

The extra session will be called primarily for the purpose of enacting the railroad legislation he desires, but he believes that tariff revision also should and will be undertaken by it.

The President holds to this view, notwithstanding the showing that has been made in the House this week by the standpatters. It is evidently his belief that the sentiment of the country is in favor of a moderate revision of the more objectionable schedules of the Dingley act, and that this sentiment will impress itself on Congress as time goes by.

For the present the President does not desire to make it appear there is any sharp divergence of opinion between himself and the leaders in Congress. But it is plain he means to continue his efforts to bring Congress around to undertaking a revision of the tariff at the extra session he says he will call in the fall.

Members of the House from Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast States are signing a statement that they are overwhelmingly opposed to the agitation for tariff revision and the calling of an extra session.

"WE'LL SEE."

Says the President, Who Proposes to Test Congress.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Senator Elkins is said to have remarked to President Roosevelt that no railway rebate bill could be passed by Congress.

"We'll see," was the President's reply.

It is said the President will send a special message to Congress this session, and put every man on record for or against regulating railroad rates.

EMBEZZLEMENT

THE CHARGE MRS. MORRIS MAKES AGAINST HUSBAND.

Chief Sheridan Went to Columbus and Found His Man at the Southern Hotel.

George H. Morris, alias H. G. Morris, was arrested Thursday afternoon by Chief of Police Jas. S. Sheridan, on a charge of embezzlement.

Morris, who is about 50 years of age, was in the millinery business with his wife, Vida H. Morris, aged 25, and they conducted their store in the Van Voorhis block on West Main street. They sold their establishment a few days ago and through alleged misrepresentation Morris got hold of the $900 and left Newark.

Mrs. Morris immediately filed an affidavit against her husband, charging him with embezzlement. Chief Sheridan found that his man had left Newark and had gone to Columbus.

Chief Sheridan boarded a car and went to Columbus Thursday noon, and went to the Southern Hotel, where he found that no one by that name had been registered at the hotel, so he waited a few minutes when Mr. Morris appeared at the clerk's desk. He asked for some writing paper, which the clerk handed to him, when Chief Sheridan stepped up and placed the man under arrest, bringing him to Newark.

He appeared before the mayor Friday afternoon, but the hearing was continued until next Friday. Morris was placed under a $300 bond.

Chadwick Jewels.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 13.—Nathan Loesser, receiver for Mrs. Chadwick, has made an examination of the jewelry held by Henry W. Wuerst of Elyria, O., as collateral for a loan. Mr. Loesser estimates the value of the jewels at $17,000. Wuerst's claim amounts to $20,000. The entire collection is believed to have originally cost Mrs. Chadwick $25,000 or more. It is stated that the customs officers have succeeded in finding a number of additional lots of jewels brought into this country by Mrs. Chadwick upon which no duty was paid. It is estimated that the officials have up to this time located not less than $125,000 worth of such diamonds and jewelry. These valuables were either put up as security for loans or given away by Mrs. Chadwick. So far as can be learned no duty was paid on the jewels now in the possession of Henry Wuerst of Elyria.

WANTED, A GOOSE

Kirkersville Man Offer to Pay $5 For a Bird Weighing 25 Pounds.

Kirkersville, Ohio, Jan. 13.—Hart Simmons, the popular merchant of this town, wants a goose. It is no ordinary, every day bird that Mr. Simmons is searching for; it must fit the series at not less than 25 pounds, but that is the only requirement stipulated except that the goose must be alive and in fairly good health. So anxious is Mr. Simmons to obtain a goose of this size that he sent an advertisement to Newark today offering to pay $5 for a 25-pound bird.

The few who know of Mr. Simmons' ambition to possess this mammoth bird are wondering what he intends to do with it, but to all inquiries Mr. Simmons turns a deaf ear and answers with a smile.

CHAPTER I.

BOOT LEG was approximately quiet for it was a little after noon and most of Boot Leg was at dinner.

Old Mrs. Elkins sat at her table, but she was not eating. Tom, her nephew, noted this fact, and from time to time he would suspend his own energetic attack upon the food long enough to glance uneasily at his aunt. Her conduct was unusual, and it troubled him. It was not her lack of appetite that troubled Tom so much as her abstraction. Ordinarily she was interested in everything. Now each remark offered by Tom was half heard and answered in monosyllables, frequently irrelevant ones, and she kept her head turned toward a window in such a manner that Tom could not see her face.

There was no apparent reason why she should wish to look out of the window. To be sure, the cottage was built on the only eminence in Boot Leg, and the view, therefore, was an extended one, but it was not in the least attractive. The wrinkled, gravelly plain was as dry as dust. So were the bare, earthy mountains that bounded it on three sides. Boot Leg, sprawling on the bank of the sluggish little river that contained all the water in sight, was composed largely of adobe houses, and they, too, were bare and dry and earthy. Judging from the fact that while Boot Leg supported but two stores, yet seventeen saloons of one kind and another flourished there, one would think that the inhabitants of Boot Leg might be as dry as the mountains and the plain and the town. And so they were.

"They're a new tenderfoot in town," said Tom finally in a last desperate attempt to interest his aunt. "He's the derndest tenderfoot you ever see. He's got pants on that's short an' buttoned round his legs, an' he wears his stockin's—the stockin's has got razzle dazze stripes all over 'em—he wears them stockin's pulled up over his pants. The boys is all laughin' at him." As he finished speaking Tom smiled, but the smile was forced and betrayed the anxiety that lay beneath it. To his great surprise, Old Mrs. Elkins was interested at once.

"You don't mean that theah big one, do you," she cried, "the one—well, that theah one with the yellah hair?" In her eagerness Old Mrs. Elkins' voice, in spite of its soft southwestern drawl, became almost sharp.

"Yes, he's big," replied her nephew, "big as me, bigger maybe. His hair's sure kinder light too. He wouldn't be none so slow fer a man if he didn't have them fool clo'es on. Don't see what a man wants ter dress himself up like a monkey fer, the way he does."

"He don't look no moah like a monkey'n you do," said Old Mrs. Elkins indignantly, "not so much. He hasn't got a brown hide like you. I don't see what you wantah run down a pulson 'oh jus' because he happens to be bettah lookin' than you."

Tom looked at his aunt in blank astonishment. Never before had he heard her speak in this way. He regarded it as another proof that her health was failing.

"Look here," said he anxiously after a moment's pause. "I'm a-goin' ter git that there doctor from Gila Bend ter come over an' have a look at you. There's somethin' slipped a cog. I seen it yos'day. I'm a-goin' ter wire fer that there doctor." Tom half rose from his chair as he spoke.

"Set down," said Old Mrs. Elkins imperiously. "Now, tell me, did you see that theah tenderfoot to speak to?" "No, not particlar. Asked him ter have a drink, an' he said he wasn't drinkin'; that's all," replied Tom, re-seating himself according to the instructions of his aunt and his lifelong habit of obedience to her. "A lot of the boys was kinder givin' him the laugh," he added.

"What'd he do?" "Didn't do nothin'; didn't say a word; looked kinder mad, though, long 'bout the las'." You see, some of the boys was a-gettin' kinder o'ly an' was what you might call personal. Shouldn't wonder if that there tenderfoot didn't get hot under the collar an' go fer some one bimeby. Then there'll be trouble fer the tenderfoot, mos' like."

"Theah'll be trouble for the man that runs 'gainst him. I'll see to that myself. Have you got through eatin'?" Tom replied in the affirmative. "Then you go. Whereas was that tenderfoot—hotel? Well, then, you go down to the hotel an' see that theah ain't no trouble. You get to know that theah tenderfoot an' bring him back heah as soon's you can an' make him stay to supper. Now go, Tawm. I know what I want all right, an' it ain't no doctah."

Tom departed, wondering greatly. What his aunt wanted with this tenderfoot more than with any one of the others who now and then passed through the town he could not imagine. Still, she did want him, and therefore he must come. The idea that the young man himself might decline the invitation never crossed Tom's mind. He was not alone in his habit of obedience to Old Mrs. Elkins. The whole town shared it. She was the one woman to whom Boot Leg, masculine almost to a unit, could point with pride. Every one called her "Ol' Mis' Elkins," and truly she looked older than many women do at seventy, though her age, she said, was but fifty-four, and Old Mrs. Elkins was not one to lie about her age or about anything else. Little, stooped and shrunken, dressed always in neat calico, her white hair strained back from her gentle face, she did not seem at all like a heroine of the tales of famine and drought and bloodshed that had become traditions in Boot Leg.

She had been born and bred on the frontier. Nearly all her life had been spent far from even the smallest settlement in the desert country of the southwest. Boot Leg to her was a center of civilization, yet even now a small lump that always appeared on the bosom of Old Mrs. Elkins' calico gown was generally known to be caused by a weapon that rested there, a weapon which she would as soon have thought of leaving off as she would the gown itself and which no woman could use with more quickness and accuracy.

When Boot Leg pointed with pride to Old Mrs. Elkins, it did so from a distance. She did not encourage familiarity, and the fact that she had never until now asked any man into her house made the present invitation more remarkable. Furthermore, Tom did not know how to deliver it. He was not acquainted with this young man, and it is difficult for a diffident person—and Tom was diffident—to deliver an invitation of this kind to a stranger. For some time Tom strolled aimlessly about, bringing up at last at the primitive little building that called itself a hotel, with a resolution to speak to the stranger and have it over with.

The barroom was crowded, as at this time of day it always was. In the evening the gambling saloons and dance halls took the people elsewhere. On the veranda sat the tenderfoot, pretending not to hear the comments on his appearance made by the men in the barroom. There was no one with him. Rather at a loss how to open a conversation, Tom seated himself by the stranger's side. For a moment or two he shifted uneasily. Then, to cover his embarrassment, he pulled from his pocket a pipe and tobacco bag. The bag proved to be empty.

"Try mine," said the young man by his side, handing over a pouch. Tom filled his pipe, lit it, took a couple of puffs and then, nodding thanks, returned the pouch.

"That there's good terbaccer," said he.

"Glad you like it," returned the other. Then there was a long pause, during which Tom smoked vigorously and looked at his companion out of the corners of his eyes.

"Didn't come from round yere no-where's?" hazarded Tom at length.

"No," replied the tenderfoot. Another pause, in which, as before, Tom observed the other man keenly. The remarks from the saloon were becoming more and more offensive. Tom looked at his companion in a gentle amazement that he would allow them to pass unnoticed. Then he got mildly indignant on behalf of this stranger.

"There's some fools in there what want likin'," said he after awhile.

"They'll git it in about five minutes more," answered the young fellow,

"Don't say you ain't had a fair chance fer a first class likin'."

More quickly than he had yet spoken, "I don't want any trouble, and I haven't said anything, but I'm getting pretty sick of it now."

"I'd get sick some time back," rejoined Tom sympathetically. "Kin you shoot?" As he spoke he made a motion as though drawing and firing a pistol. The young fellow shook his head.

"Not to speak of," said he.

"Some of them fellers kin," said Tom, "an' there's some of them what wouldn't min' shootin' a man like you, what wasn't beelied, neither. Course I could kill him afterward," he added reflectively, "but that wouldn't do much good. Reckon I kin fix it, though. Look yere. You willin' ter lick two or three of them fellers?"

"Be most happy," said the tenderfoot, rising from his seat. Tom also rose and, followed by the other, made two or three quick steps toward the barroom door, but before he reached it he suddenly stopped and faced around.

"Look yere," said he. "I don't know whether I oughter do this thing or not. I got ter take you home with me ter eat supper. My aunt, Ol' Mis' Elkins, tol' me ter bring you, an' if I got you damaged I don't know what she'd say. But maybe you'd better go through with it now you started. Come on." Entering the room, the two men strolled toward the bar. Tom asked the tenderfoot his name.

"Joyce—Robert Joyce," said he.

"Mine's Tom Caruthers," said Tom. He leaned his back against the bar and looked around the room. All eyes were on him and his companion.

"Look yere, gentlemen, if you'll allow me ter use that there expression," said he, addressing the crowd. "This yere, young feller is Mr. Bob Joyce, what has jus' struck the town. He's heard some of you a-talkin' in a way that's kinder personal 'bout them there socks what he's got on. Now, he allows that it ain't none of yer business what kinder socks he wears, an' if anybody thinks he'd like to make it his business all he's got ter do is ter step right up an' interview Mr. Bob Joyce on the subject." He paused, and again he looked around the room. No one spoke.

"Come," Tom went on. "We can't wait here all night jus' fer your convenience. Step lively an' come along, one at a time. Now's the time ter subscribe. Nobody comin'? Where's yer sportin' blood? Here's $50, all or any part of it, on Mr. Bob Joyce 'gainst any man yere at evens, guns an' knives barred." He paused again and then went on: "Five ter four, then. No takers? Fire ter three. Nobody yet? Two ter one. Now, then, that's my last offer. You fellers is a kinder krazy rabbit crowd. So long. We can't wait no longer. Only don't say you ain't had a fair chance fer a first class likin'; that's all." As he finished speaking he motioned Joyce to precede him and then backed out of the door. Once outside he hurried his companion down the road and around the corner of an adobe building.

"Now we know where we're at," said he. "It wasn't no way likely that none of them fellers would do anything, but you can't never tell. There's some that'd like ter. They'll all be dead soon or you now after that bluff I chucked. You wanta look out fer that there crowd."

"Do you mean that they'll shoot me in the back?" asked Joyce uneasily.

"No, maybe not. Likely they'll try an' get you inter an argument, though, an' then let that kinder make an openin'. Have ter keep yer gun handy; that's all."

"But I haven't any gun," said the younger man, rather concerned at the prospect before him. Tom, however, seemed to take it as a matter of course.

"Oh, well," said he in a soothing tone, "you kin get one ter-morrow. Yere we are at the house. That's her staidin' in the door there."

To Restrict Suffrage.
Johannesburg, Jan. 13.—A forecast of the report of the native affairs committee is published by the Transvaal Leader. It shows that the commission is fully agreed that a limitation must be placed upon the colored vote, which it will show by startling evidence, is becoming a serious menace. The report will recommend several methods by which the desired end can be reached, but will insist that the present chaotic condition can not be allowed to continue.

To Settle Textile Strike.
Fall River, Mass., Jan. 13.—The members of the different textile unions in Fall River will be asked Friday night to vote on the question of delegating the power of settling the strike in the cotton mills to the 15 members of the textile council. The call for the meeting is said to be the result of the efforts of Governor Douglas to settle the strike, which has been in progress for nearly six months.

Champion Ear of Corn.
Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 13.—The interstate corn exhibit, which has been in progress at the Iowa agricultural college at Ames for two weeks, closed with a lively auction sale of champion ears in which a single ear, the southern Iowa sweepstakes champion, raised by H. E. Ross of Farracut, brought $11. The $2,000 prize for the best exhibit was won by W. E. Johnson of Athens, Ill.

NEW INDICTMENTS

ARE NOW FACED BY OHLIGER AT WOOSTER.

In Each of Which He Is Charged With Embezzlement—Zimmerman in Wooster.

Wooster, O., Jan. 13.—The troubles of Louis P. Ohliger, cashier and president of the closed Wooster National Bank, now under $15,000 bond for the alleged misuse of the funds of the bank, continue to multiply.

The grand jury has investigated a number of matters with which Mr. Ohliger was connected, and when that body adjourned yesterday afternoon it was announced that two indictments for embezzlement had been found against the banker, alleging the embezzlement of about $4,000 in the estates of David G. Jacobs and John C. Larwill. Ohliger was ordered to make a distribution in the latter estate two years ago, but failed to do so.

J. R. Zimmerman, the director of the bank, who fled from the city with Ohliger, returned from Cleveland at midnight. He was about town the better part of the day in company with his brother-in-law, Judge M. L. Buchwalter, of Cincinnati.

Augustus D. Lynch, receiver of the bank, last night sent out notices to the stockholders of the bank making demand upon them for $100 upon each and every share of stock held by them at the time of the failure of the bank. The names of the stockholders, with their holdings, follow:

L. P. Ohliger, 295; David Thomas, 50; A. D. Metz, 70; J. R. Zimmerman, 50; estate of John Zimmerman, 100; estate of John Willaman, 37 1-2; Wm. Noid, 10; John McSweeney, 40; Mrs. J. B. Quinby, 45; John Johnston, 10; Violetta Barrett, 10; Mary J. Liggett, 10; Louisa M. Vollrath, 25; Mame H. Keefe, 25; Linda Hine, 5—all of Wooster; E. P. Willaman of Orrville, 12 1-2; Frank H. Hawley of Leroy, O., 100; W. S. Eversole of Aurora, 10; Frank M. Metz, of Ethna, Pa., 20; Henrietta J. Miller, 15; Jessie Miller of Boulder, Colo., 10.

February 10 is the date when the money is to be paid.

Mr. Lynch took judgment against Fred L. Zimmerman, on a note for $10,000. Zimmerman claims it was an accommodation note and that Ohliger told him that he had destroyed the paper. Zimmerman insists that he received no consideration for the note.

WANTS TO WED NEWARK WOMAN

Mrs. Markham Too Poor to Employ Lawyer, Writes Judge a Letter for Her Children and Court Orders Epistle Filed as Her Answer to Husband's Suit.

When Mrs. Alice Markham addressed a letter to Judge E. B. Dillon, of the Common Pleas court at Columbus, lamenting the inability to fight the divorce case brought by her husband, because of her poverty, little did she reckon that that letter would be made her attorney by the court and filed as her answer in the divorce proceedings.

The letter written to Judge Dillon states that she is a poor woman working in a restaurant in Bellefontaine, and that her husband, Charles Markham, has applied in the courts of Columbus for a divorce, asking for the children. The wife takes no exception to the application of her husband for divorce, but resists the thought of him having custody of their children. She says her husband wants to marry a Newark woman.

Judge Dillon, recognizing that poverty is not a bar to one appearing in court to defend charges made, decided that he would simply file the letter as an answer. Accordingly he indorsed on the back of the letter the style of the case, the case number and also ordered the letter filed with the papers in the case. The letter, which is a part of the court records now, and which was written at Bellefontaine, is as follows:

"Dear Sir:—My husband, Charles Markham, has applied for a divorce through the courts of Columbus and he also wants the custody of our children. Now I am a poor woman and work in a restaurant to support myself and I am not able to employ an attorney to fight for the children, but I thought perhaps you might not give them to him if you heard from me, for of course I will not appear against him.

"Oh, please do not give them to him, for he wants to marry a woman in Newark that he has been living with, and I do not want the children to have a stepmother. His mother has them at present, but she is not able to keep them, for she is an old lady, and I do not think she will be here long. My people are more able to take them and they would have a good home. Mr. Merwine is his attorney, I understand. If you would only make a provision that they should stay at his mother's or my parents' and not let him take them away I think the first would be all right, but oh, I do not want him to take them. Hoping you will stop and consider these things before the trial, as I humbly beg you will, and oblige,

"MRS. ALICE MARKHAM.
"Brettain's Restaurant."

It is a very unusual thing in court procedure to have a letter made an answer in a divorce case, and that, by the judge of the court.

The letter was filed as the answer by the clerk upon the order of Judge Dillon.

BOTH ARMS ARE BROKEN

Four Weeks Ago Dr. Hissey Fractured Left Arm and in Newark Thursday This Zanesville Man Broke Right Arm in Same Manner and Place.

Dr. M. W. Hissey, one of Zanesville's most prominent men, while in Newark Thursday, fell and broke both bones of his right arm just above the wrist. Four weeks ago Dr. Hissey fell in Zanesville and fractured his left arm in practically the same place and just as seriously as the fracture of the right arm.

Dr. Hissey is now suffering from two broken arms, and in consequence will be practically helpless for some time to come.

The victim of the double misfortune is the president of the Union Machine company, vice president of the Commercial National Bank, and principal promoter of the Southeastern Ohio Railway, Light and Power company of Zanesville. He is also a prominent politician. Thursday the doctor was in this city and while changing cars, enroute to Zanesville, was the victim of the second accident that fractured both bones of his right arm just above the wrist. The fracture is a serious one.

Four weeks ago to the very day, Dr. Hissey slipped and fell on the icy sidewalks in front of his O'Neil street residence in Zanesville, and fractured the left arm in practically the same manner as his right. It will be at least a fortnight before Dr. Hissey will be able to use his left arm, and it will be six weeks or two months before his right arm will have healed sufficiently to permit its use. Dr. A. M. Templeton, assisted by Dr. G. W. McCormick, reduced the fracture of Dr. Hissey's left arm Thursday evening.

The victim of the accident had just left a Pullman car of an incoming train in Newark to change to another Baltimore and Ohio train for Zanesville, when he slipped on the ice and fell. Dr. Hissey continued on his home, suffering greatly during the period when it was impossible to obtain surgical attention.

WEE CHILD

Ran a Quarter of a Mile and Saved the Life of a Girl Who Fainted on a Railroad Track.

Frankfort, Ind., Jan. 3.—Gladie Sheets, a seven-year-old girl, who goes to school at Moran near here, is a heroine in the eyes of the public for her rescue of Lizzie Feisinger, a young woman also a student at the Moran school. On her way to school yesterday, Miss Feisinger fainted and fell between the rails of the Vandalia railroad on a curve. She was discovered by the little Sheets' child, who could not move her from the track.

The little one knew that a fast passenger train was due in a few minutes, and she ran one-fourth of a mile to Moran where she fell exhausted as she told her story. Men ran to the scene and dragged Miss Feisinger from the track with the train less than 100 feet away.
